The Hitavada

Vidarbha Line | 2022-03-03 | Page- 4 ıani village.

Workshop held on organic farming with indigenous seed varieties

■ District Correspondent

WARDHA, Mar 2

raf-BAJAJ Foundation organised a farmers' meet-cum-workshop on organic farming through use of indigenous seeds at Wardha on Monday. The first in a series of such programmes was held with o a an aim of promoting indigenous seed varieties and to bring seed om sufficiency. The programme wass her attended by hundreds of students and agriculture experts, besides arts farmers. The programme was inaugurated virtually by Apoory Bajaj, Trustee, Bajaj Foundation and was attended by Praveen Mule, District Development > ATMA. Bajai Foundation, Group's philanthropic arm, intends to regularly organise such meets-cum-workshops increase the number of selfreliant farming families through use and preservation of indigenous seeds and natural farming practices, the organisers told.

> Manager, of NABARD, and Vidya

Mankar, Project Director of Over 100 farmers displayed numerous indigenous varieties of seeds on the occasion. The workshop gave a rare opportunity for the attendees to learn about various types of crops which could be cultivated via natural farming practices using indigenous seeds.

In a bid to raise awareness among masses, students from local agricultural colleges and business schools were specially invited for the day-long workshop. Students from colleges including Ramakrishna Bajaj Agriculture College attended the meet and learnt the latest techniques and best practices in organic farming from farmers and agriculture experts.

ivil to rgo ldiaid oncet-

18

ur-

nth raf-

tarith-

not

aju and adcarr

of ent tav, : of ub-ıim ent. oon by ter, iim PC. the day > eth Nas ASI 7ale Arti epand ent not

r to the